Question What is imperialism and how did it influence America's expansion in the late 19th and early 20th centuries? Imperialism is the policy of extending a nation's authority over other countries through territorial acquisition or political and economic domination. In America, imperialism led to the expansion beyond continental borders, exemplified by actions such as the Spanish-American War, the annexation of Hawaii, and the influence in Latin America and the Pacific, driven by economic interests, strategic concerns, and the belief in American cultural superiority. What were the main motivations behind American imperialism during the age of New Imperialism? The main motivations included economic interests (access to new markets and resources), the desire for military strategic advantages, the spread of American values and culture, national prestige, and the belief in Manifest Destiny and racial superiority that justified territorial expansion. How did the Spanish-American War exemplify American imperialism? The Spanish-American War of 1898 resulted in the U.S. defeating Spain and gaining control of former Spanish colonies like Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Philippines. It marked a significant shift from continental expansion to overseas imperialism and demonstrated America's new role as a colonial power. What role did the annexation of Hawaii play in American imperialism? The annexation of Hawaii in 1898 was motivated by strategic military importance, economic interests in sugar plantations, and the desire to establish a Pacific naval base. It exemplified America's move to extend its influence into the Pacific region. How did the concept of Manifest Destiny evolve into American imperialism? Over time, this idea expanded to justify overseas imperialism, asserting that America had a duty to spread its influence, culture, and civilization beyond its borders. What were some criticisms of American imperialism during this period? Critics argued that imperialism violated democratic principles, led to the exploitation and oppression of colonized peoples, and was driven by economic and strategic interests at the expense of moral values.
